

The Purple Turtle Short Film Festival begins in Baffle Creek, Qld, in 2017 to celebrate cultural diversity via World Harmony Day. The aim is to offer an artistic platform to the region's youth in particular to promote empathy and understanding.

Our region from Bundaberg to Gladstone challenges many minority groups with issues ranging from lack of acceptance and recognition to bullying and discrimination.

The purple turtle is a symbol of acceptance no matter race, color or creed and our commitment to our local environment.

We are encouraging film makers of all ages to join us. Primary School students are invited to make films of 3-6 mins in duration whilst Secondary School students and all other entries should be 6-10 mins. Entries close March 21st.

The Purple Turtle Short Film Festival begins in Baffle Creek, Qld, in 2017 to celebrate cultural diversity via World Harmony Day. The aim is to offer an artistic platform to the region's youth in particular to promote empathy and understanding.

Our region from Bundaberg to Gladstone challenges many minority groups with issues ranging from lack of acceptance and recognition to bullying and discrimination.

The purple turtle is a symbol of acceptance no matter race, color or creed and our commitment to our local environment.

We are encouraging film makers of all ages to join us. Primary School students are invited to make films of 3-6 mins in duration whilst Secondary School students and all other entries should be 6-10 mins. Entries close March 21st.

The Purple Turtle Short Film Festival begins in Baffle Creek, Qld, in 2017 to celebrate cultural diversity via World Harmony Day. The aim is to offer an artistic platform to the region's youth in particular to promote empathy and understanding.

Our region from Bundaberg to Gladstone challenges many minority groups with issues ranging from lack of acceptance and recognition to bullying and discrimination.

The purple turtle is a symbol of acceptance no matter race, color or creed and our commitment to our local environment.

We are encouraging film makers of all ages to join us. Primary School students are invited to make films of 3-6 mins in duration whilst Secondary School students and all other entries should be 6-10 mins. Entries close March 21st.

